

Credit Workshops For Teachers

Raven Hill Discovery Center & Central Michigan University

Central Michigan University, Off-Campus Programs partners with Raven Hill Discovery Center located in East Jordan, Michigan to offer graduate credit for their 2012 Workshops. Artists come to the Center where they work with art, science, and history educators, as well as high school and college students.

Two class formats are available

Weekends (WE): Fridays 4 - 9 p.m. and Saturdays & Sundays 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Weekdays (WD): Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. daily

CMU credit

Each session offers three semester hours of graduate credit through Central Michigan University. Credit is accepted by most school districts toward professional certificate renewal and may also be used to comply with the School Administrator continuing education requirement. If you are working on a degree program, please consult with your advisor or certification office to determine if the course will apply to your program.

Art

Art Across the Ages (AAA): General overview of art throughout history emphasizing hands-on approach to experiences in clay, fiber, glass, metal, stone and wood from ancient to modern times. The course includes time to focus on an individual area of interest as well as participate as a group on a community project for permanent exhibit at Raven Hill Discovery Center.
